The county seat of said county to be at Canton, on the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 14, township 98, north of range 49 west. And that until the next ensuing general election the following named persons be appointed officers of said county, to wit: County commissioners, Augustus J. Linderman, H. P. Hyde and Benjamin Hill; sheriff. C. H. Smith or South; probate judge and county treasurer, J. Q. Fitzgerald; register of deeds, William Hill; justices of the peace, W. Hyde and W. S. Smith; constable, James Weekly; coroner, Joseph Weekly. And that the said officers be empowered to discharge all the duties pertaining to their several offices; Provided, that the said County of Lincoln shall remain, as now, attached to Union County for representative and judicial purposes. This act was approved December 30, 1867. Concerning the pioneers, a settlement had been made on the future site of Canton as early as 1864, by H. P. Hyde and his son Henry, who built a cabin but did not remain, probably leaving their exposed situation during the Little Crow Indian hostilities of 1862. During the intervening four or five years, during which the Big Sioux Valley appears to have been avoided by immigration, there was considerable travel throug...
