Rounding Up the Mavericks

When Josephine Ann Clemente is forced to travel from Virginia to Texas by train to meet the man her father has arranged for her to marry, she soon finds out that Texans can sometimes be too much to handle. When she meets a nosy traveled named Emmet Stone, she spends the remainder of her journey trying to avoid him. Little does she know, however, that he will soon cross her path again.

Josephine, not one to let one bad apple ruin the bunch, decides to overlook her run in with Emmet and focus on who really matters – her fiancé, Donovan. Josephine isn't quite sure how she is going to adjust to Donovan’s ranching way of life, but she gives it her all. When she is flung headfirst into the kind of emergency situation she feared though, Josephine quickly learns that in Texas you should always go prepared for the unexpected!

Passage

Lynn was tired of working in the garden, outside of her late grandmother's house, and she was about to get some tea when she had a chance encounter with fate instead. His name was Tom, or Tomas, and though he had the perfect smile and tailored suit, he was the worst vacuum salesman in the world. He didn't even know that it had to be plugged in to turn it on.

He didn't look that dumb, and he wasn't. There was something strange about him, and Lynn would have to get past it if she was going to let him in. He burned through her, tore her heart apart, and when she had finally fallen for him, he was gone.

Who and what was he? Would she ever see him again?

Second chances are the stuff of dreams. Nearly everyone has at least one relationship they wish they might have had another chance to save, another opportunity to make right. We have all suffered the loss that a missed opportunity or a miscommunication has cost us.

But what if you had a chance to fix the problem, the possibility to correct an error that cost you dearly – would you take that chance? And at what cost would such a chance require?

Drew is back from a three month backpacking trip, when her mother tells her that she has found the love of her life and they will soon be married. Drew is shocked, but happy for her mom. After meeting Charles, she is even more certain that he is just perfect for her. Everything was not perfect though and when she met her soon-to-be-stepbrother, Drew was having a lot of mixed emotions.
Lars on the other hand was not so confused. When faced with something that he wanted, the billionaire's son was used to getting what he wanted. After a few minutes with the smart-talking Drew, he knew that she was one of those things. When she wouldn't fall to her knees like all of the other women he had known, Lars had to resort to a tactic that he usually reserved for takeovers, dirty tricks. Will she cave when faced with humiliation or will Lars never know what it is like to be with his stepsister?
