Salisbury District Superior Court Records with Land (1753-1809) Stewart E. Dunaway
Salisbury Superior Court Records (1753-1809) is a very large collection of interesting and eclectic set of records, dealing with land issues. Interesting, due to the broadness of the collection, which includes State Supreme Court hearings, District Superior hearings, and Rowan County records. In the early years, State Supreme Courts were held in different districts, of which some of these records are included in this volume. Eclectic, due to the diverse nature of the type of records within this collection. This collection includes ejectments, land disputes, copies of plats, land grants, and even bonds dealing with deer skin trading with the Catawba Indians. There are plats and records, which deal with old McCulloh land grants, as well as some dealing with Granville grants. NOTE: there are many Orange County (old) court cases in this District, since people appealed their case to the "next district" so they could have an impartial jury. Therefore, do not overlook the value of this book for old Orange County court records.
