God: The Architect GertJan de Leeuw
God The Architect, is a devotional spiritual work, which discusses in great detail God, religion, devotional meditation, Vedic astrology, western science, western society, the limitations of logic and reason and the esoteric and occult paradigms.

The enlightened author extensively discusses the practice of meditation, what it is, what its effects are and how it can help one attain a higher state of consciousness.

Besides deep esoteric subjects, like the never revealed esoteric causes of World War II, the author also discuses the troublesome trends which are enveloping society due to the cultural standards of Generation X as well as the dominance of the media.

The depth of information presented in this book is quite unique and the many subjects it handles are never revealed before in western societies.

This book explores the link between psychology, astrology, spirituality and daily life, based on sacred ancient wisdom. It seeks to diminish the doubts of the reader by factually demonstrating their silent impact on every day life.

In short, God The Architect is a unique book which exposes the lesser known areas of the human experience.
