Granite: Mating Fever (Dragon Horde Book 2) Ronin Winters
Getting turned into a werewolf against her will would give any girl trust issues, and Frost is no exception. She might be free from the ones who originally kidnapped her, and the nearby wolf pack seems to be run by a good alpha, but she'd rather be as far away from anything supernatural as possible. So why is it every time she turns around, she's always running into the same dragon?

Granite's every instinct screams that the seductive she-wolf is his mate and he wants nothing more than to wrap her in his arms and never let go, but Frost carries her pain and her distrust like a shield and won't let him near. But dragons are patient, far more than even wolves. He'll be there when she lets down her guard, and convince her that being a dragon's mate is nothing to fear
